Before the Lesson:

- Combine one cup of sugar and one teaspoon of cinnamon in a bowl and set aside.

When selecting snack items, be aware of any food allergies the children may have.

Resurrection Biscuits

- Give each child one biscuit and one marshmallow.
- Have each child flatten his or her biscuit on a piece of foil until it is about five inches in diameter.
- Spread the butter and cinnamon-sugar on the biscuit and the marshmallow (the marshmallow represents Jesus and the biscuit represents the tomb).
- Place the marshmallow on the center of the biscuit, and then fold the sides around it to form the “tomb.”
- See that the marshmallow is completely sealed within the biscuit.
- Place each biscuit crease side down on the foil, and sprinkle with more cinnamon-sugar.
- Bake in preheated toaster oven until lightly browned.
- Remove the biscuits from the oven, but allow time for them to cool since the melted marshmallows will be hot.
- Wait until the biscuits are cooled and then serve them to the children.
- They will discover that the tomb (biscuit) is empty! Tell children that while this is a fun cooking project, it is only a reminder of the Resurrection.
- Explain to the children that Jesus, in fact, rose from the dead!
